Case Study 1

Two second year students are trying to work out their grade-point average for their first year studies to put on their placement application. They don't know how to calculate their GPA and are arguing about it. One of them is suggesting to use excel, but the other doesn't know how to use it.

Case Study 2

You overhear two students talking about a piece of coursework that is due tomorrow. One of them is saying he has recently had some sickle cell crisis and has not been able to focus on
